Mighty Meals is a project of Mission International

Mighty Meals: This initiative is currently running in Bweyogerere a township just outside Kampala, Uganda's capital city. Many children in Uganda are left destitute due to HIV/Aids and as a result of tragedy in their family. Pastor Emmanuel Winye Sunday and his wife Florence have been running a school there called Bweyogerere Multi-Purpose Primary School for many years. The school is designed to give a quality education to underprivileged children. Mission International's Mighty Meals initiative is supporting each child with a meal every day whilst they are at school, this costs an incredible £25 per year per child, which equates to a coffee and a donut every month.

This project is run on 'a shoe string' but is incredibly effective since it provides a square meal every day for underprivileged children at school. These children can concentrate more and therefore perform better in school.
